Picking fingers for automatic de-feathering machines

- We use high quality raw materials, progressive production techniques and strict quality control over all production stages to ensure the finger's efficient performance and long duration in the picker, thereby saving costs and replacement time.
- The wide choice of fingers size and hardness degrees enables each facility to choose the best fingers for its specific conditions and needs.
- Supergum's fingers are also available in anti-bacterial form. Made from a special, sophisticated and unique compound which prevents the growth of bacteria such as Salmonella.
- Based on independent lab testing last longer by at least 30% than our competitors in terms of material/loss of volume and resilience.
- Supergum's fingers are KOSHER certified.
